Russian - Danish economic relations have grown fast in recent years. Trade is flourishing and diversifying. Investment is growing stronger. Today, Russia is a market of vital importance to many Danish companies, and Denmark is a significant and strategic partner to an increasing number of Russian companies. This positive development is expected to continue as the mutual knowledge and experience grow, and as the infrastructure and framework conditions develop further.

The Russian - Danish Business Conference will take stock of the commercial partnership between Russia and Denmark and lay the foundation for expanding this partnership further. Both at the general level as well as at sector and company level.
